Rye production is on the increase in Appomattox County and the State. The big reason is, of course, no till corn.

Like so many crops, variety is extremely important. Abruzzi is the recommended rye variety. Some northern varieties are coming into the state and are giving a very poor performance. This poor performance is because it makes very poor early growth because of its winter hardiness and late spring dormancy.

Of the 300,000 acres of rye planted in the state, it's estimated that one-third is seeded to one of the northern varieties.

This fall Marvin Glover is going to sew two varieties, one adapted and one unadapted variety, to demonstrate the reason for being selective in rye varieties.

As daylight time shortens and harvesting is on the increase, farm operators should not overlook the importance of good lighting and the use of SMV emblems.

* * *

An average of one ear of corn left in 138 feet row or two kernels per square foot equals one bushel per acre loss. A guide for measuring corn harvest losses is available from this office.

* * *

Soybean growers, like corn producers, are leaving money in the field because of improper equipment adjustments. It's not uncommon to find 15 - 20% soybean losses.

* * *

Last Monday 72 new bulls came to the Red House Bull Test Center. These bulls come from a wide selection of pure-bred producers across the state.

They go on official test October 16.

Did you know that steaks that are aged two to three weeks are usually the most flavorful and tender.

Naturally, aged steaks will cost more than those aged one week, but if you really want the best product, it takes time.

* * *

Recent morning temperatures foretell the coming of colder weather. If you like chive and parsley for flavoring and garnishing dishes, why not start a mini-garden right in your kitchen.

Chives are started from bulbs and parsley from seed. A couple of six inch pots is all you need.

Those who fertilized their fescue with extra nitrogen in August really got a boost from the three inches of rain that fell recently.

Seventy-five to 100 pounds of N can mean 2.5 tons of standing feed by November 1.

Lime Does Make A Difference

In the above picture there are two samples of corn taken from the same field. Both had the same treatment; fertilizer, variety, herbicides, date of planting and climate. The difference was lime. The shorter corn came from an area that did not receive one application of lime.

The pH differences were 4.7 and 6.0. The yield differences were 13 and 125 bushels per acre.

Failure to lime properly can be a costly mistake.

Nominations Open For ASC Elections

Appomattox County farmers are encouraged to nominate candidates for Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) community committeemen, reports J. P. Alvis, Jr., Chairman, Appomattox County ASC Committee. Petitions, to be signed by a minimum of three qualified voters, must be filed by October 27 at the Appomattox County ASCS Office, Appomattox, Va.

"We are hopeful a slate of at least six candidates will be nominated by farmer petitions, including representatives of the minority group (s) in Appomattox County," said Mr. Alvis. ASCS programs are nondiscriminatory and administered without regard to race, color, creed, sex or national origin.

Eligible farmers may sign as many nominating petitions as they wish. No special petition form is required, but the petition must include a statement that the nominee is willing to serve if elected. Most persons eligible to participate in ASCS programs are eligible to serve as ASC committeemen. This includes producers, sharecroppers, tenants, and minors who supervise an entire farm operation.

Nominees must have farming interests within the ASC community, be qualified ASC voters and not have reached their 70th birthday by the date they take office. Further details on nominations for ASC community committeemen may be obtained from the County ASCS Office, Appomattox, Va., phone 352-5283.

ASC community committeemen elected by mail ballot December 1 will assist the County ASC Committee with ASCS programs, conduct farm community meetings, and serve as delegates to the Appomattox County Convention to elect the county ASC committee.

MORE FAMILIES LIVE IN NATIONAL HOMES THAN ANY OTHER HOMES IN THE WORLD

"Making the most of what you own..."

Buddy Eggleston, Vice President and Manager of Fidelity's Appomattox office, talks frankly about banking here in Appomattox.

"Fidelity, as you know, is a big bank. And because we are, we're able to offer our friends a vitally important service that can save you and your family literally thousands of dollars over a lifetime.

"I'm talking about our Trust Department, which is staffed by highly trained professionals in money management.

"After you've spent years in building an estate, which can include your home, life insurance, stocks and bonds, a savings account, things like that, you should get maximum use of it. And later on, there should be as much of it left for your family's use as possible. Making it happen this way requires skills and knowledge the average 'friend of the family' executor just doesn't have.

"That's when the Trust Department of a big bank like Fidelity can mean so much. Since we've settled so many estates before, we don't use the trial and error approach at your family's expense. Working closely with your attorney and life underwriter, we take a coordinated approach to your financial picture that results in making the most of what you own."

Fidelity's Trust Department. Another service from the big bank you can depend on.
